

Forage Overview

Support career readiness with experiential learning from the world's top companies

The Forage + Pearson Partnership

Forage offers students access to the world's top companies through job simulations, while Pearson helps them unlock their potential through interactive course content. Together, we're able to pair world-class content with real-world experiences in order to help take students from classroom to career.

Business faculty are now able to assign a select number of Forage job simulations to their students through Pearson's digital learning platform, MyLab.

Forage in the Classroom

Educators use Forage job simulations to help their students:

- Connect the theory they are teaching in the classroom to the work done in the real world.
- Embed career awareness into curriculums.
- Enhance recruiting outcomes for students.

Millions of students globally undertake Forage job simulations each year as part of their coursework.

"Forage is so valuable to my student population! It is a fabulous tool for students to explore career paths, the world of work, connect to recruiters and additionally gives a student the confidence to apply for positions that lead to full-time employment."

-Kristi Brescia, Computer Science Advisor, CUNY College of Staten Island

"Forage has been the best online resource to have come our way in recent years. It is truly impacting the career success of our students."

-Robin Darmon, Director, Eastin Center for Career Readiness, Oklahoma State University

What Is a Forage Job Simulation?

Forage partners with the world's top companies to create virtual job simulations. Each simulation showcases a day in the life of a particular role at a specific company through an immersive and interactive experience. Participants are taken through a series of task-based, hypothetical workplace scenarios designed to simulate the unique and interesting work a company does.

FAQs

What is the student experience?

Students receive video guidance from actual employees and undertake asynchronous tasks that closely mirror the day-to-day work at each company. Upon completion, students receive a certificate of completion and guidance on how to add the experience to their resume and LinkedIn profile.

Do companies see student work?

Companies do not use student work as a means for which to assess their candidacy. Forage is intended to serve as a platform for learning and career exploration.

Can I suggest additional employers that should have virtual job simulations?

Yes, we'd love to hear from you and so would our employers. Email education@theforage.com to provide your suggestions on which employers we can showcase next!

What if my students need technical support?

For Pearson MyLab support, students can go to AskPearsonSupport.com to access support articles, quick start guides, or get in touch with a tech support specialist by chat or phone. For Forage job simulation support, students can access support articles directly through the Forage platform. Students also have the ability to create support tickets directly through Forage and can email support@theforage.com if they encounter any remaining technical issues.
